iii) After the completion of the new construction on the top floor, we are planning to allot a separate space for the female students of the department.

iv) The Department has emphasized upon the local and regional aspects of language, literature and culture.

v) With Indianness as the major driving force of the whole programme of the department, it has taken forward the mission and vision of the university.

39. Detail the plans of the Department/Centre/Institute for the next year :

We are encouraging research of culturally diverse and indigenous cultural life of various communities of Assam and North East India. The idea is to develop the concept of Indianness at macro and micro levels of the society.

In the course of research, we will continue addressing sensitive issues pertaining to the indigenous communities, culture and life. In this regard, we confront problems that are not specific, but require special attention.

We shall continue to encourage research on linguistic diversity, sociolinguistic aspects, cultural diversities, etc.

It will contribute to the idea of National Integration and strengthen it from the grassroot level. Collection and archiving of these resources will enrich the field of higher education.

38. Information on up to five Good Practices followed by the Department/Centre:

1. While framing its syllabi for the different programmes, the department always tries to consider the historicity, specificity and diversity of the region. It also tries to relate theory with practice by focusing on field studies which helps in better understanding of the social realities.
2. The department facilitates the capacity building of the students as well as the teachers through the different teaching tools, training programmes and activities.
3. Participatory teaching-learning process based on student's interactions and discussions is promoted.
4. Continuous evaluation of the students as well as teacher performance throughout the programmes is done.
5. Gender equity wherever possible is practiced as a principle (50% of the seats allotted to other departments in the Value Added Courses is reserved for boys).
6. Administration of the department is based on democratic functioning and e-governance.
7. Reduction of wastage of paper and eco-friendly measures is also emphasized.
8. Punctuality and regularity of classes are maintained.
