

Acknowledgement

This work is done under the constructive criticism and support of Dr. Nivedita Goswami, Associate Professor, Department of Economics, Gauhati University. Her excellent supervision and valuable advice have helped me a lot throughout the research. I wish to sincerely thank her for having acted as my supervisor during the period.

I also wish to express my deepest appreciation to my teachers of Gauhati University, especially Dr. M.P. Bezbaruah, Professor and Head of the Department of Economics, who has provided me a great deal of valuable advice. I would like to extend my sincere thanks to library staff and my friends who have given valuable advices and time.

Most importantly I would like to thank my parents Shri Dilip Dey and Smt. Mantu Dey and other family members especially my younger brother Shibam Dey and my friend Mouchumi Das for their constant support and encouragement and prayers to God that gave me power to do my work.

And above all, I thank the Almighty God who is always present in my spiritual life especially in times of difficulty and shows me the right path.

It is not possible to mention all the people who helped me in my research work. So I thank all of them sincerely. However the responsibility of any errors that remain is always mines.

I hope that the present study would meet the needs of readers and researcher's fully. I welcome the comments and suggestions from all readers.
